Adult Life*

Program Highlights

Benjamin Banneker Career and Transition Center provides instruction to students ages 18-22, with moderate to -severe disabilities, who are currently on the Alternate Curriculum. Students are provided with independent living and social skills instruction, as well as vocational training in a variety of occupational strands, to ensure that students are prepared and qualified to enter the world of work. Through Community-Based Instructional activities, our students develop a greater sense of independence through exploration of community resources, practicing independent travel training, and integrating into the community at large.

Student Outcomes

We partner with parents on their mission to prepare each child for a successful future. Equipping the next generation to be self-sufficient and independent is the greatest gift we can give both students and their families. As each student progresses, they gain the deep personal satisfaction and self-respect derived from being a contributing member of society.

Vision Statement

By providing rigorous vocational training and instructional programs for our students, we aim to empower each student to reach their full potential and develop their unique abilities to become work ready and maximally independent.

Parents

As a parent of an adult with special needs, you are committed to providing them with the best growth opportunities possible. We can help you achieve this goal. Our program works cooperatively with LAUSD's District Office of Transition Services (D.O.T.S.), the Department of Rehabilitation, and the L.A. County Regional Center to provide our students with access to an array of support services throughout their lifetime..

Employers

Businesses that hire individuals with disabilities report a reduction in employee turnover, an increase in employee loyalty, and an increase in morale and productivity of other employees. A 2007 study by DePaul University found that employees with disabilities were just as dependable and productive as employees without disabilities, and had nearly identical job performance ratings. (Source: www.workwithoutlimits.org) Hiring students that are prepared and qualified is a smart choice that will benefit the community and businesses that partner with us! Contact our CTC Job Developer today to learn more about our State funded WorkAbility and worksite volunteer programs!
